Hi Jessie-

I haven't actually spoken with Rebecca about this yet, but from what I've gathered from her email, the case against ████████ on Wednesday may be dependent upon the results of his trial on Tuesday. Is this correct? I'm just wondering as I feel I should let a couple of other ADAs (in Springfield and Northampton) know what may be happening as I am on call for their cases on Wednesday as well.

Also, I am on call now as well as tomorrow for a Superior Court case in Springfield but haven't heard anything about it yet. That ADA is aware of my case in Westfield tomorrow.

As for tomorrow (Tuesday), I know that you said on call would be fine, but also that the ███████ case is the only case scheduled so I will definitely be needed. Would it be easier for me to be there at a set time (i.e. 10:30 or 11:00) instead of on call? There is a chance that the Superior Court ADA may want me there right at 9am tomorrow. Would it be a problem if I go to that first and then shoot over to Westfield if that is the case? I don't know how long it will take to pick a jury, esp. with the defendant being his own attorney, nor do I know how many or how long any other witnesses may take. Please let me know so I can be informed when the Sup. ADA gets back in touch with me. As I believe I may have also mentioned, I do have a couple of other DC cases scheduled tomorrow and I have informed all of the ADAs of the Westfield case. I've only heard back from one of those ADAs (from Holyoke) and he seems a little worried that he may need me too.

I know that this is all a lot to organize and try to schedule, so once I heard back from people, I will keep everybody informed of what is going on. Thanks.

-Sonja
